MY NEIGHBOR AND I LIKE TO TOTOROLL IN THESE THOUGHTS

Abita Venkatesh

Some examples given in the article of design inequity that most ring true to me are the concepts of immigration status and online Eurocentrism, at both the community and institutional levels...In my design going forward, I will likely focus on the individual and community levels mentioned in the paper as they are most prevalent to what I currently have power to change...

PRINCESS MONO-O-KAY, HERE'S ANOTHER GREAT THINKING CAP!

Edmond Wen

This example underscores the importance of constantly unsettling hegemonic spaces by advocating for the rights and needs of everyone. This strategy is a component of the design justice framework which seeks to center the voices of those directly impacted by a product and to work towards non-exploitative solutions that build a sustainable community.

Theme of the week

For thousands of years before contact with Europeans, the Karuk people, like many Native American tribes, tended their land with fire, keeping an ecological balance among plants, animals, river, and forest.

Thoughts about these recent events?

 Start presenting to display the poll results on this slide.

Design is relatively easy.

Justice is hard.

Design Justice is not an “ideal” or “theory”

Design Justice is a holistic framework and approach to rebalance society and technology by focusing on marginalized communities

Recall, as a society this is where we are at:

This is where design justice framework comes in:

Sure, design justice not the answer to everything,
but it is a helpful approach to rebalancing.

Why?

Design Justice...

Pushes back from the interplay of other forces, by healing, sustaining, and empowering civil society

Revisiting Design Justice to... Do it justice.

Design Justice Principles:

1. Use design to sustain, heal, and empower communities
2. Center voices directly impacted by design
3. Prioritize design's impact on the community instead of designer's intentions
4. Change comes from an accountable, accessible, and collaborative process.
5. EVERYONE is an expert based on their own lived experiences
6. Share design knowledge and tools with communities
7. Work towards sustainable, community-led and community-controlled outcomes
8. Work towards non-exploitative solutions
9. Before seeking new solutions, look for what is already working

FRAMEWORK & PRINCIPLES

Discussion in applying design justice

Discussion: Part 1

1. Randomly join breakout rooms WITHOUT your group members!
 - I will move people in the same groups to different breakout rooms
2. Take turns introducing your group projects. (1-2 mins per person)
3. Lead a discussion and take notes on how your group project could better use design justice principles. (5 - 8 mins per person)

Discussion: Part 2

- 1. Join your group project in a breakout room and then discuss your notes from part 1.
- 2. Summarize some key elements of design justice that your group project could be improved upon or already does well and why. (10 mins)
- 3. Report back and share.

Concepts to learn today

Data Justice

Peership

Data Justice

Hold your skepticism...

What is Data Justice?

Fairness in the way people are:

1. Made visible
2. Represented
3. Treated

That involve their digital data.

Why bring up data justice now?

We are collecting data this week.

Why bring up data justice now?

Personal data and privacy should be a right,
like clean air, water, food, and housing.

Why bring up data justice now?

Surveillance capitalism and fascism are fast growing issues.

Some key

S about
Data Justice

Three pillars of data justice

- (in) visibility
- (dis) engagement with technology
- non-discrimination

Note the invert of the first two concepts.

SO YOU DIDN'T JUST USE ANY RANDOM MOVIE?

Connecting Design Justice to Data Justice

What is data justice? The case for connecting digital rights and freedoms globally

Consider your surveys

(In)Visbility

- How are you making community data visible?
- How are you allowing data to be removed?

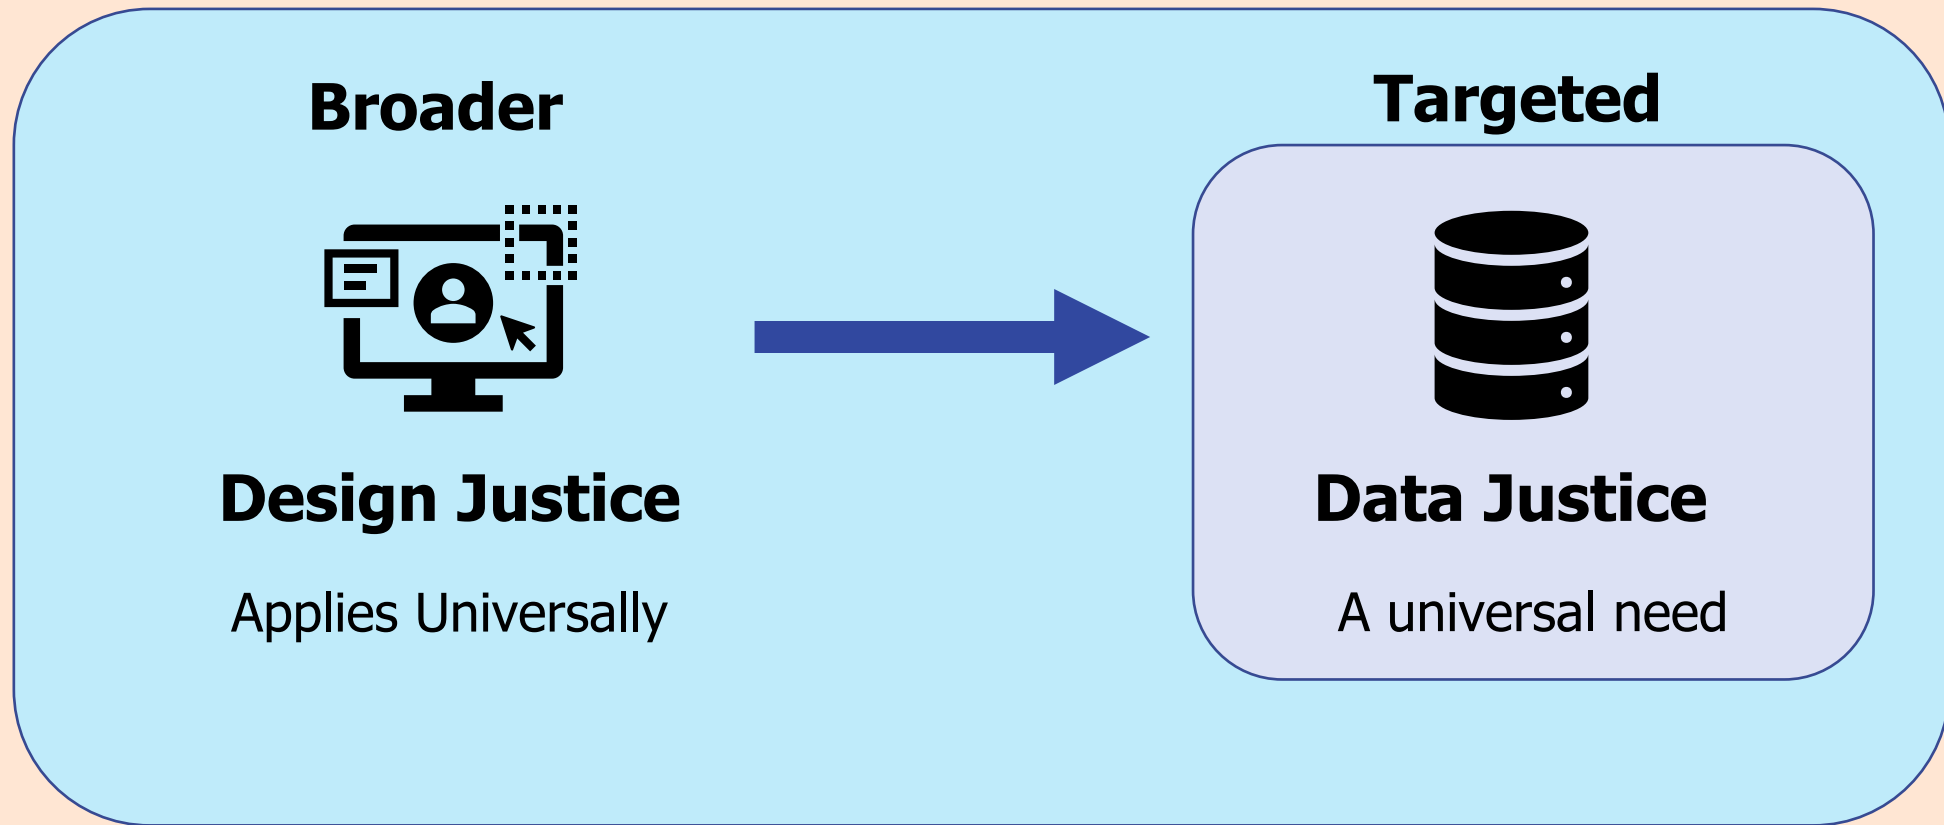

(Dis)engagement with technology

- Are participants allowed to use any technology? (Smart phone/web browser)
- How are you enabling participants to opt-out using technology but still participate in your issue?

Non-discrimination

- How can survey participants voice their concerns about how their data is being displayed?
- How can participants prevent discrimination?

The capabilities approach and the role of data justice

What is data justice? The case for connecting digital rights and freedoms globally

Design Justice and Data Justice are interconnected

Key Takeaway:

Design Justice

How does your application fit into the larger context of empowering civil society?

Data Justice

Do the parts of your application protect the inherent rights of people?

Both are ethical frameworks for systemizing and defending your decisions

Remember, ethics is about:

Ok, seriously, why is this important to mapping?

Data is not objective.
Our applications are not objective.
What is objective then?

Our experiences and the communities we empower.

We must focus our applications with ethical frameworks to avoid misconceptions.

Why?

Decide where you want to be going with your mapplication.

Or external forces will decide that for you.

Be intentional and thoughtful

Key: Be intentional and thoughtful

If your designs and data intentions are not clear, it will be easy for others to turn your intentions against you and the community.

Most critical point

Be intentional in what you design and what you choose to share.

Design is relatively easy

Justice is hard

But...

The arc of the moral universe is long, but it bends towards justice.

-Martin Luther King Jr.

So let's fight on the side of the moral arc.

Collaboration and Mentorship

Mentorship is everywhere

Building Mentorship Frameworks Requires:

- 1. Consistency and sustainability
- 2. Aligning on expectations: what is each party getting out of this?
- 3. How formal does the relationship need to be?

Givers and Takers

NOTICE OF DATA BREACH

Dear [REDACTED]

As the University of California (UC) previously disclosed in communications to students, staff and faculty, and retirees in early April, UC experienced a security event with its Accellion file transfer appliance (FTA).

We'll talk more about how to “technically” collaborate in a lab but here's a preview:

How to Git Collaborating:

1. Collaborative Coding Sessions

2. Individual Coding Sessions

3. Pair Coding Sessions

Thinking Cap for the week:

Do you think data justice and design justice relate? How can you share about these ideas with others beyond this class?
